Five States Have All but Nine
Multi-Millionaires in Country.

ALBANY, May 31.—New York State's supremacy as the centre of wealth is shown by statistics given out to-day by State Comptroller James A. Wendell, indicating that the Empire State had a number of multi-millionaires who reported taxable incomes in 1919 totalling a million dollars or over.

Statistics of Federal incomes compiled for 1918 showed that there were forty persons making returns from the State in 1918 with individual taxable incomes of $1,000,000 or over, whereas there were only sixty-seven in the entire country.

Pennsylvania came next with nine financial leaders reporting million-dollar incomes, while New Jersey, Delaware and Massachusetts trailed along with three each.

Out of 93,700 returns tabulated to date in payment of the New York State tax for 1919 there are five individuals with taxable incomes of $1,000,000 or over. If the same ratio is maintained—and there is every reason to believe it will in view of the 1918 Federal figures—then in 1919 at least forty residents of New York

State paid taxes on yearly incomes of $1,000,000 or over. Figures giving the number of returns filed in the different income tax classes and the approximate total amounts of tax collected in each group follow:

SEEKS HIS MISSING FIANCEE IN WEST

Benjamin Schiller in Chicago in Search of Rose Rockmore, Who Has Disappeared.

No recent word had reached Abraham Rockmore, lawyer, of No. 184 Crown Street, Brooklyn, from his sister Rose, who left home last Wednesday after a misunderstanding with Benjamin Schiller, to whom she was engaged.

The last word from the young woman was a letter from Cleveland Friday saying she was well and urging her relatives not to worry. Mr. Schiller, a clothing merchant, is in Chicago thinking to find trace of Miss Rockmore there.
